

Party Quirks

NUMBER OF PLAYERS: 4

OBJECT: Player 1 is hosting a party. One by one the remaining 3 players enter the party. Each guest has a quirk (chosen at random) that they must continue to act out until the host acknowledges them by stating the “quirk”.

EXAMPLE:

Player 2 is allergic to everything and keeps sneezing. Player 3 thinks they are a hockey player. Player 4 thinks they are an opera diva.

Players must interact with the host and other guests until the host acknowledges each by saying something similar “Would you like an antihistamine?” to player 2. “I thought your team won the Stanley Cup this year.” to player 3. “The Mikado is my favorite opera.” to player 4.
