

Small to Big

Things You'll Need: space & music

Instructions: This game is beautiful and relies on the imaginative capabilities of the participants. While music is playing in the background, the instructor will call out objects, animals, buildings, etc that are small, medium, or large. So whatever the instructor calls out, the students have to pretend to be that object by moving like it (if it moves at all) and impersonating it's size. The students will not only learn new things, but will also have fun!
